Fire Damage Restoration

Fire damage can be extensive, destroying large parts of the building structure, leaving a hazardous area of construction debris, and destroying personal property items blanketed with masses of soot. The home may be drenched in water from emergency sprinklers or fire hoses. The home is likely to have a strong and persistent smoke odor. Our fire damage restoration experts bring the industrial equipment, tools, materials, and supplies needed to thoroughly remove all damage, seal all affected surfaces, entirely eliminate the most stubborn smoke odors, and replace all destroyed or damaged parts of the structure and finishes.

Water Damage Restoration

Flooding due to excessive snow or ice melting, extreme rains, or sewer issues, leaks, or other plumbing problems, can cause harmful household chemicals to be washed over surfaces in your building and exterior areas, mold and mildew damage, appliances and equipment damage. Utah Flood Cleanup provides state-of-the-art processes that you need from water damage restoration company experts for water cleanup and restoration of your property. We thoroughly remove all water and damaged materials, dry all construction materials completely, and rebuild to replace any damaged parts of your building and finishes, to entirely restore the damaged area of your business or home.

Mold Damage Restoration

Mold can spread and become out of control and difficult to thoroughly abate, without professional intervention. When neglected for too long, mold can undermine the integrity of construction and become a serious threat to the health of building occupants. It's common for mold to develop due to flooding from a plumbing leak or roof leak. Utah Flood Cleanup certified mold removal experts know how to eliminate all mold spores, which is necessary to prevent the typical problem of mold continuing to re-emerge and flourish. Our mold abatement specialists have the proper equipment and tools to eradicate mold and prevent re-growth.

Sewage Damage Restoration

Contaminated water flooding a home can disastrously impact health and safety conditions. Gray water can back up in sinks, dishwashers, showers, bath tubs, and washing machines. Blackwater is even more dangerous than gray water. It carries bacteria and fungal matter from toilets and sewage pipes. Even clean water from a leaking water line can cause serious water damage and mold. If you have damage from a sewage overflow, we will respond to the emergency quickly. We will efficiently perform professional sewage cleanup, eliminate health hazards from exposure to sewage and mold, dry the basement, and thoroughly restore your home to its pre-disaster condition.
